When size matters

(NC)—Summerwood Products, North America's premier designer of customizable sheds, gazebos and cabanas recently celebrated the launch of a new line of large cabins and garages. Ranging in size from 12 x 12 ft. to over 16 x 32 ft., these new designs reflect the nation's growing interest in building weekend cabin retreats, bunkies, barns, home offices and outdoor studios. Here's why:

"North Americans want unique designs that reflect their personality and tastes without going to the trouble or expense of hiring an architect, designer and engineer," says Peter Harvey, President and Chief Executive Officer of Summerwood Products. "So, we do it for them with a truly impressive selection of customized, original designs to address their needs."

All elements of Summerwood's outdoor structures can be customized. The web site highlights hundreds of photos showcasing the countless possibilities. They can be ordered online and come in ready-to-assemble packages, with DVD instructions, for shipment anywhere in the North America.
